Carnival Royalty

The Minden Winter Carnival got off to a regal start Friday night with the selection of the Carnival Queen and her court. Nicole Gauley, centre, was selected to reign over the festivities this year. She is seen here with runners-up Janine Garbutt, left and Sheri Rivard. Accompanying the royal party are representatives of service clubs who assisted in organizing this year's event, Dennis Edlington, left, of the Lions Club and Paul Lowe of the Rotary Club. For more photos of this year's festivities, please turn to pages 4 and 5.

Sled dog organizers hopeful weather will hold for weekend

The promise of continuing cold weather has buoyed the spirits of the organizing committee of the Minden Techni-Cal Challenge Sled Dog Derby.

As the community entered the final week before the event, the committee members were pleased to see the light dusting of snow which arrived last weekend, the temperatures remaining below zero degrees and the promise of fresh snow in the forecast.

"We have the base for a trail through the bush," race organizer Stuart Brandon said late last week. "It is certainly not the best condition we have offered the racers in Minden, but considering the weather extremes we have been through during this winter, what is on the ground now is looking pretty good."

Brandon explained that a decision as to whether the race will go ahead will not be made formally until Wednesday noon. The race has been postponed once from its original scheduled run of January 21 and 22. At that time lack of an adequate snow base for the trail forced the organizers to postpone the event to the alternate dates of February 4 and 5.

"We know how important this race is to the community," race Governor Val Loughheed said. "Particularly this year when the weather has played havoc with traditional winter attractions such as snowmobiling and cross-country skiing." She noted that the municipality, also recognizing the importance of the race to the community, has offered its whole-hearted support for the event. As well the sponsor, Martin Pet Food of Elmira is keen to see the race happen.

The racers, including some of the best in the world, have been monitoring the weather conditions constantly. "The Minden race is biggest of its kind in the world," Loughheed pointed out. "The racers are eager to compete for the points they can earn here and, of course, for the cash rewards which go to the winners."

If the weather does not cooperate, it will be impossible to re-schedule the event this year. However, organizers continue to be optimistic that the cold weather will hold and fresh snow will be added to the meagre stock on the ground so the event can take place.

"It's a time to think snow," Brandon concluded.

Council asks MPP to help stop cuts to health services

by Jerry Grozelle

Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson has been making the rounds to municipal councils in his riding, hearing the concerns of the local levels of government. Last week, he came to Minden to talk with the council of Anson, Hindon and Minden.

The local council had a "wish list" that was discussed with the provincial representative.

At the top of the list was the health care issue, as it relates to Minden. Reeve Jeanne Anthon told Hodgson that the citizens of the municipality "have expressed great dismay over proposals to drastically reduce the health care services in our community. The senior residents are particularly distressed and have even indicated their need to move to another area to guarantee that their medical needs are met."

She asked Hodgson how he could help to make sure that adequate health care services will remain in Minden.

"I'll be very supportive," Hodgson said.

He has been following the progress of the Acting Health Services Board and he commended the members for their efforts. Hodgson pointed out that the board has control of what services will be available in Minden, subject to availability of funds. He also stressed that people aren't staying in hospital as long as they did in the past, thanks to advances in technology. He said that it doesn't matter what the beds are called as long as they are available. It will be the responsibility of the board and the new executive director, when he or she is hired, to determine what services are needed and what will be required in terms of funding.

"People won't have to move," Hodgson assured council, "We will have medical services in Minden."

Hodgson was also advised that there are only two doctors in Minden available (on call) to provide care at the hospital 24 hours a day, seven days a week. There is also the concern that if hospital services are lost, there would be little incentive for doctors to remain in the area.

Anthon asked Hodgson if

No 'major leak' in Hyland Crest roof

A report at county council that the roof at Hyland Crest had "developed a serious leak that needs immediate attention" was the product of a misunderstanding.

Gary McKnight, administrator of Hyland Crest said that there was some discussion about the roof during the Hyland Crest Committee meeting. McKnight said that the discussion centred around the need to do some repairs soon to prevent a much larger bill in the future.

McKnight said there is no serious leak. He said there is an area of the roof where the tar has "shrunk back from the fascia", but added that it is not leaking at this time.

The need for repairs to Hyland Crest's roof and other renovations was part of county council's reason to apply for redirection of infrastructure funding that had been approved for a new county administrative building. A total of $300,000 of the funds, if the redirection is approved, would go toward renovations at Hyland Crest. Roof repairs would be a part of that $300,000 allocation for Hyland Crest.

The Times was unable to contact the chair of the county's Hyland Crest Committee, Jock Mavor. In his report to county council at the last meeting, Mavor had mentioned that there was a serious leak in Hyland Crest's roof.

Murder trial of Lenard Phillips enters third week

Phillips is accused of the stabbing death of Minden constable Eric Nystedt in 1993

Accounts of the trial of Lenard Roy Phillips of Fenelon Falls in connection with the stabbing death of Minden OPP Constable Eric Nystedt in the early morning hours of July 3, 1993, were provided by Don Blakley, who is covering the trial for Radio Station CKLY in Lindsay.

The first degree murder trial of Lenard Roy Phillips, 34, of Fenelon Falls will begin its third week today. Phillips has pleaded not guilty in the stabbing death of Minden Ontario Provincial Police constable Eric Nystedt at about 2:05 a.m. on July 3, 1993.

Crown attorney Rita Koehl, in her opening address to the jury of six men and six women, said that she intended to prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that Phillips was fully aware of what he was doing when he stabbed constable Nystedt and that he did so with "full intent".

OPP technical identification expert, constable Michael Illes was the first witness for the prosecution. He submitted more than 60 photographs taken at the scene of the murder, which occurred on the Bacon Road (off Highway 503) near Irondale.

The scene unfolded as court heard testimony of several witnesses. It was established that the accused had attended a barbecue at the home of Randolph and Ethel Scott of Tory Hill several hours before constable Nystedt was murdered. Phillips had been seeing the Scotts' daughter Karen Scott McMullen at the time. They went to the Scotts' cottage on Bacon Road, taking a case of 24 of beer with them.

Court was told that a former boyfriend of McMullen arrived at the cottage and later in the evening of July 2, a fight had broken out between Phillips and he former boyfriend of McMullen. Because of the altercation, police were called to the scene. Phillips is said to have left the scene by the time police arrived.

Police were called a second time and when Constable Nystedt and his partner, constable Mike Landry arrived, they conducted a search for Phillips.

Constable Landry testified that it was a clear night with a full moon -- clear enough for Phillips to be able to identify the uniformed officers as policemen. He said that they called out to Phillips, identified themselves as police officers and told him they they wanted to talk to him.

Landry said that he could see Nystedt on the road about 30 yards away, when Nystedt said that he had located the suspect. A few seconds later, Nystedt called for help and a few seconds after that, walked out onto the roadway and said "I've been stabbed".

Landry described how Nystedt was placed into the police cruiser and sped down the road to meet the ambulance and of the transfer to the ambulance. He also told the court of waiting at the hospital until he was told that his partner had died.

Details of the stabbing of Constable Nystedt were broadcast on CKLY Radio in Lindsay at 8 a.m. on the morning of July 3 and by 9 a.m. a detailed description of Phillips had been aired.

Shortly after 11 a.m., Kenneth Graham, a resident of Furnace Falls, having heard the details, saw a man fitting the description of the accused standing on the highway a few hundred feet away. Graham called the OPP.

At about the same time, Irondale resident Robert Hancock was driving his truck along the highway. Having also heard the description, he saw a man fitting the description hitch-hiking. Hancock stopped another motorist and told him to go back to a roadblock that he had just come through and notify the police of the location of the man fitting the description of the suspect.

Phillips was subsequently arrested at gunpoint at the side of the road and charged with the first degree murder of constable Nystedt. He was read his rights and transported to OPP station at Cobocok.

Phillips was quoted by arresting officers as saying "I guess I really did it this time." And later, saying: "So, who's the guy I murdered?"

The 24th witness in the trial was escorted to the courtroom in Lindsay from prison. Randy Guy, who is currently serving a sentence of two years less a day for possession of stolen goods valued at more than $1,000, was in the Lindsay jail when Phillips was taken there. Guy testified that he had talked with Phillips every day and that Phillips had bragged about killing a police officer. Guy quoted Phillips as saying: "There's one less cop you have to worry about on the street."

Guy said that Phillips told him that he meant to stab the officer in the stomach "to slow him down" and that he had thrown the knife away in the swamp.

Guy testified that in the prison system, anyone who kills a police officer gets the respect of the inmates and that Phillips was "enjoying the respect".

The prosecution is expected to wrap up its presentation late today (Monday).

The trial is expected to be concluded by the end of this week.

BACK ON TRACK: The return of cold weather has also meant the return of the ice car racers to the track at the Minden fairground. The teams missed several weeks of racing due to mild conditions and hope to make up for lost time before winter departs for good.

No official response from Board of Ed

The Haliburton County Board of Education is not yet prepared to make a statement on the Royal Commission on Learning released last week, but one board source did say that at first glance, on a personal basis, he found the report impressive.

Said superintendent of education Dale Robinson, "We've received the report here, and I haven't really had time to analyze it. I've read it. I've read parts of it. I've read the summary. And the only comment I'd be willing to make at this point, and this is speaking as an individual, certainly not for the board, is that I'm generally impressed with the report."

Robinson says that the board will be making an official statement on the commission's report some time around the middle of next week.

The commission announced its findings January 26. Among its recommendations, the report suggests that children should start formal education as young as age three.

Health tops councillors' wish list for Hodgson

there were any provincial government incentives to encourage doctors to practice in smaller communities and stay for the long term.

Hodgson admitted that he didn't know of any such incentives but promised to investigate the possibility. "Don't get your hopes up, though," he cautioned.

A needs study is being prepared to determine what should be considered adequate health services for Minden. The council of Dysart et al has promised support when AH&M is ready to approach the Acting Health Services Board with the findings of the needs study.

Another issue that concerns AH&M council is the changes to the county's application for infrastructure funds regarding the county building.

"Considering the knowledge we have gained in our own infrastructure funding proposals, we have some concern that the county is submitting a new application for redirecting the infrastructure funds," Anthon said. (Infrastructure funds in the amount of $2.4-million were approved for the construction of a new county building in Minden.) "In your opinion, does the government allow such redirection or could the county building requirements be jeopardized by this new application?"

Hodgson replied that the deadline for redirection of infrastructure funds was September 30, 1994, but that there have been a few exceptions. He added that there would be no guarantee that the $900,000 portion that the county is asking be made available to municipalities within Haliburton County, would be approved.

Hodgson said that it might be beneficial if a list of projects the funds could be directed toward were submitted with the request for reallocation.

Keeping the courts

The addition to the municipal office in Minden will also house the provincial court. The municipality has an agreement from the province to use that facility for court proceedings for five years. Beyond that, there is no guarantee.

Hodgson was asked if there was anything he could do to ensure that the courts stay in Haliburton County and if there is any way a longer-term commitment can be secured.

He replied that he would do what he could.

Another subject discussed was supplementary applications and how Hodgson may assist in ensuring the municipality's applications receive "proper and due consideration".

On the subject of restructuring, AH&M council wanted to know if there were any new initiatives.

"How serious is the province in mandating restructuring counties," Anthon asked.

Hodgson replied: "I haven't seen any official plan."

Councillor Jerry Rome offered the observation: "They just seem to be letting the small communities go bankrupt and forcing them to amalgamate."

Hodgson agreed that he has seen this happen in other areas.

Councillor Rome questioned a statement attributed to provincial Progressive Conservative leader Mike Harris that if he is elected, there would be "no more publicly supported housing, as they become ghettos".

"There are many examples of seniors and family housing projects in your riding," Rome said. "I'm not aware of any ghettos being created."

Rome added that recent statistics have shown that as much as 51 per cent of Haliburton County's population is receiving some form of government support. He added that the county has the highest population of senior citizens in the province and that facilities such as Minden's Staunworth Non Profit Housing Corporation and Haliburton's Legion Apartments are essential to the county.

"I haven't seen anything about cutting public housing," Hodgson replied, adding that senior housing has been "tremendously successful".

Asked to comment on the County's decision to support one multi service agency (MSA) for each county, as opposed to one MSA for as many as four counties, Hodgson said the MSA concept is a good one, but the way the NDP government has decided to implement it is flawed. He said that it was supposed to be community driven, which isn't happening and he is worried about unionized workers getting preferential treatment, among other issues associated with the proposed MSA system.

Overall, the meeting was positive. Hodgson gained some insight about the concerns of the municipality and the council received some assurances that their MPP will be doing all he can to represent their interests at the provincial level.

Infrastructure $ reallocation

County request being studied

Sources for the federal and provincial departments handling the infrastructure program told The Times January 27 that it is hard to say at this point if the county's request for reallocation of the funds for the new county building project will be approved.

And if the application is approved, say the sources, it is equally hard to say how long it will take.

Haliburton County council resolved January 18 to petition the federal and provincial governments to redirect the funding for the proposed new county building into other projects.

The proposed $2.4 million county building project had been the largest single infrastructure project in Haliburton County. Canada/Ontario Infrastructure works announced December 7 that the project would create 37 jobs locally.

But the newly formed county council resolved January 18 to scrap the project in favour of modifying the existing building. The balance of the money would go to improvements to Hyland Crest's roof and into a $900,000 fund to be used by lower-tier municipalities for their own projects.

It is the last part of that resolution, says the federal source, that will make it complicated.

Ed Yudin, speaking for Industry Canada, the federal department that handles the program, says that such a request simply hasn't been made yet, to his knowledge.

"There is no policy on that right now," said Yudin. "In other words, it's not going on."

And Sadru Champs, the project analyst for the Ministry of Municipal Affairs, which handles the provincial part of the program, says that the approval process at the provincial level alone will take at least two to three weeks.

After that, says Champs, the project goes to the federal level for approval.

"A lot depends," he said, "on how fast they get the application in for the new projects they are proposing."

As of January 27, Champs hadn't seen the county's application. The county office says it has been submitted.

Bill 163 has had little impact on local municipal council meetings

Andrew Milne

Reeves of seven municipalities in the county say new provincial legislation concerning when their governments can discuss matters in sessions closed to the public, has made little if any difference to the manner in which they operate.

Bill 163 was introduced by the provincial government last spring by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs (MMA). The bill is described as an open local government and planning reform package, and among the legislation introduced under the bill, are provisions controlling when local governments and their committees can discuss matters in camera, or in sessions closed to the public. In particular, governments are now required to declare why a meeting has been closed.

Certain matters in local governments have traditionally always been discussed in private, and these are identified in the bill as valid reasons for going in camera. These are matters involving the acquisition of property, matters related to personnel, and matters related to litigation.

The Reeves of Anson, Hindon, and Minden, Bicroft, Dysart et al, Glamorgan, Lutterworth, Sherborne et al, and Stanhope were asked about the effect the bill had on their governments. All said their meetings were largely open to the public anyway, and the bill would have little effect.

Says Anson, Hindon, and

Minden reeve Jeanne Anthon, "It seems the difference really lies in the fact that all meetings are considered closed until opened — at least that's how they were assumed in the past. And then the new act says they are to be considered open until closed. And of course our first step when we gathered for a meeting used to be to declare the meeting open. So I don't see it changing."

Said Lutterworth reeve Jim

McMahon, "Basically all our meetings at Lutterworth in the six years I've been on council are open. We have no hidden agendas. Certainly I haven't totally digested the whole bill. I guess there's still going to have to be some clarification as to what actually is defined as property matters — as a purchase — and personnel matters."

The legislation was in force as of January 1, 1995.

Anthon wants to hear from ratepayers

Andrew Milne

Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve Jeanne Anthon says that if ratepayers have a problem with the decision of the county council to redirect the funding for a proposed new county building, they had better tell her now.

County council voted January 18 to petition the federal and provincial governments to redirect funding, for a proposed new $2.4 million county building into renovations for the existing building, repairs to the roof at Hyland Crest, and a fund to be used by the municipal governments. Much of the discussion pertaining to the motion took place in closed session.

"If they have any concerns about the direction the county council is going," said Anthon, "they should be starting right now to appeal to their representatives to the county council, and ask for information or meetings or make suggestions. Perhaps they don't take advantage of their representatives to the county council as much as they should, but they certainly don't have to wait for any kind of formal public hearing on a specific item. They should feel free to phone us any time, and say 'I don't think you're doing the right thing — I think you should be doing something else.'"

Anthon also said that the petition to redirect the funding was to go to the federal and provincial governments immediately, and that she couldn't say when they could be expected to respond with their decision.

AH&M council opposes further firearms restrictions

Anson, Hindon and Minden council passed a resolution insisting that the Government of Canada abandon those sections of the Action Plan on Firearms control affecting the continued ownership and legal use of firearms by responsible Canadians.

Council agrees with the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, which says the action plan, if implemented, contains severe sanctions and restrictions on the continued ownership of firearms by responsible, law-abiding citizens by subjecting them to unnecessary and unjustified controls, limits, stipulations, red tape and financial burdens.

The resolution states: the existing controls on firearms ownership as contained in the Criminal Code of Canada and the regulations passed pursuant to the Criminal Code are more than adequate to ensure public safety and that crime could be controlled through enforcement of the existing laws along with those proposed in the Action Plan to counter criminal firearm use. Implementation of further controls on law-abiding Canadians as proposed in the Federal Action Plan on Firearms Control will place overwhelming burden on scarce police resources at the local, regional and provincial levels; such costs would be better used fighting crime.

Council's resolution further opposes any measures that prohibit or ban any firearms that are presently, or were prior to January 1, 1995, legally owned by registered owners in Canada.

The resolution will be forwarded to Prime Minister Jean Chretien, Justice Minister Allan Rock and local MP John O'Reilly and MPP Chris Hodgson.

The resolution will also be circulated to neighbouring municipalities, requesting support from those councils as well.

Council invited to rally

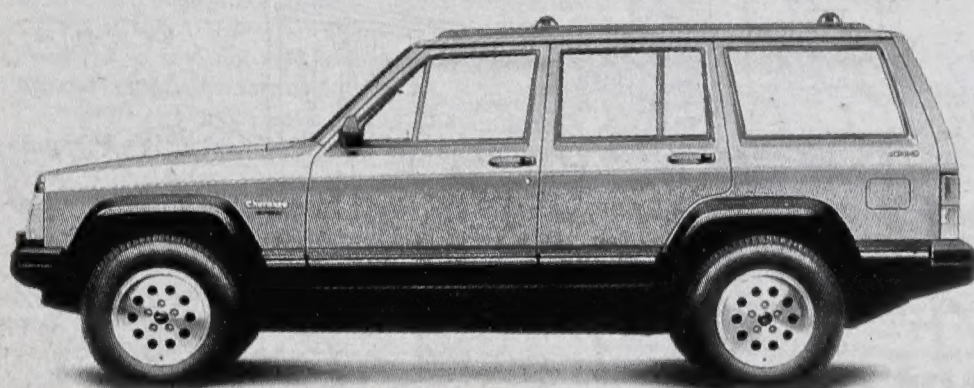

All members of AH&M council were invited to attend the Gun Owners' Rally at the Haliburton High School on Sunday, February 5 to show their support for the concerns of the county's responsible firearms owners.

Reeve Jeanne Anthon said that she had a prior commitment to attend a conference on that weekend. Deputy-reeve Lewis Stevens and councillor Grant Plooard indicated that they planned to attend the rally.

Over their heads

It's not the roof at Hyland Crest that is full of holes, but rather the story which was floated at the County Council several weeks ago.

After deliberating for several hours behind closed doors, the council emerged to justify its decision to redirect infrastructure funding by saying there was a major leak in the home's roof. Correcting this problem, along with other repairs, would consume $300,000 of the funds originally earmarked for the construction of a new county building. Now the home's administrator and others who know about these things say the roof does not have a "major leak". They suggest some maintenance work is all that would be needed in the near future.

As we pointed out last week, the method by which this change in direction and expenditure of public funds was reached left a great deal to be desired. Now it appears even the justification offered by the councillors is questionable. Warden Ross Rabjohn said he doesn't believe the public is ready to be exposed to all the deliberations of the council; that they might find them confusing.

Now we can understand why.

Tip o' the helmet

Just over a year ago, the community was seething over the state of high school sports. An ugly brawl involving the HHSS hockey team and players from a Peterborough team, which spilled over into the stands, sparked the concern. There were calls for hockey to be dropped from the inter-mural schedule and for those involved to be disciplined. To the coaches' and the school's credit, penalties were imposed on the players and the team immediately last year and the season continued with few disturbances.

As the regular high school season draws to a close and the teams head into the play-offs, we are pleased to note that the tone set after the incident last year has continued into this season. We have attended a number of games in the past month and have been impressed not only by the speed and dexterity demonstrated by the players on all sides, but also an apparent willingness to play the game within established rules and what is considered acceptable standards.

A tip of the helmet to the coaches and players of the HHSS Redmen for providing an excellent brand of Canada's national game. We look forward to more of the same as the play-offs begin.

Millions out the window

Editor:

Allan Rock's new gun control law is nothing but political window dressing serving no practical purpose whatsoever.

I read in an article about Allan Rock proudly proclaiming that IBM is developing a computer system for the government enabling the police to know where every gun is from one end of the country to the other. No other country will have a system like it.

Well - the reason for that is that most likely no other country can afford to throw millions of dollars out the window on a useless law. And no other country has taxpayers as patient as Canada. The only ones gaining, that I can see, are the "instructors" teaching hunters not to point their guns at one another and pull the trigger at the same time. Or to be correct never to point their guns at anybody.

I feel sorry for the young fellows reaching the hunting age having to spend hundreds of dollars and not even be sure they will get the knapsack full of permissions and licences they need to go hunting nowadays. I'm contemplating buying a note book computer to keep track of it all. Or maybe hiring a secretary.

One of the troubles is these fanatics who are against everything normal people do. They scream so loud and make such a racket it makes politicians like Allan Rock and our tobacco minister nervous. I'm sort of glad they don't work in the same office. It would be a helluva mess. They are both in the wrong business.

Could Allan Rock have composed a law that would have made all the criminals rush to the nearest police station and turn in their guns and our provincial tobacco minister (I'm sorry, I don't remember her name) compose a law that would make everybody quit smoking (without much pain), then I'd be the first to say, by all means spend the millions we ain't got!

K.C. Dam,
Lutterworth Township.

Prevent the abuse before it happens

Editor:

This month was very distressing, perhaps heart-breaking is a better description.

As odd as it sounds, I was bombarded with phone calls and personal greetings from men and women who thought my recent letter to the editor (December 19) was wonderful. That is distressing because there was a cry for help if I'd ever heard one.

Most of these teary-eyed men were on the verge of losing their homes, their jobs, their previously up-standing reputations and most importantly, their children. What sin did they commit? What horrible deed did they do? They filed for divorce and the custody of their children.

Oh yes--the custody question. Who gets the house, the money and the kids can be a dirty one. Next thing he knows, he's accused of abusing his wife and children.

Needless to say, not all these men are innocent, but I know for a fact, some are.

The point is: women have access to all kinds of emotional, financial and legal support. They are even provided with shelter. These shelters and the system "rewards" women for becoming a victims. They receive attention, housing and money. Males do not.

The problem becomes: How and why don't they investigate and find out whether a woman is 'The Abused' or the 'Abuser' of a system that says: We'll get you the house, all the money, the kids and even revenge.

The women's movement and the system itself has created the Marc Lapines of this world.

I can hear all of you jumping up and down cursing him, but the fact is....

Is there a 1-800... help line for the Marcs or any other man to call before they goes over the edge? No.

Is there a shelter for the Marcs of the world to go to when they are being beaten to a pulp? No.

Is there even a counselling centre or a human being these people can go to or call when they desperately need help? No.

Why? Because they are male. If that isn't sexual discrimination, then what is?

So instead, lets ignore it and burn candles so the 'almost Marcs' will become Marcs.

Why not prevent the abuse before it happens, to save lives and families? Maybe because it's not very good financially for the shelters or lawyers. You just can't have a successful abused women shelter without abused women, can you? The result would be the loss of all those wonderful government handouts.

There is a problem. The scales are not equally balanced. There is a desperate need in this county and if those in power really want to help abused women instead of burning candles and declaring war on the male species, they should practice prevention by giving the men of this county an equal opportunity to get the emotional, legal and financial support they need also.

Finally, when a woman kills her tormentor, as in The Burning Bed story and film, she is labelled a hero. When a man does the same thing, he is labelled a horrible crazy monster.

A pengo for your thoughts on inflation

The price of admission into the coronation of Henry I was one crocard, but Henry II's went up to a pollard. At King John's it soared up to a siskin and by Henry III's time, it cost a whole dodkin.

Richard Condon.

Ah, inflation. Someone once defined it as "being broke with a lot of money in your pocket". Right now, North American bankers are tugging their pinstripe vests nervously because Mexican economists have devalued their peso.

Financial types don't like to see other countries "experimenting" with devaluation. It's the economic equivalent of experimenting with heroin.

People in the money business have long memories. They haven't forgotten the bad old days in Europe after World War I. Back in the early twenties if you were German and wanted to buy, say, a loaf of bread, you loaded up a wheelbarrow full of German marks and trundled them down to the baker.

Yes, a wheelbarrow. In 1921, the German rate of exchange was 81 marks to the U.S. dollar.

Just two years of rampant inflation later, an American dollar would fetch a million marks.

That same year, a podgy young American by the name of Ernest Hemingway toiled as a reporter for the Toronto Star. In December of 1923 he wrote a piece about a confidence man on the streets of Toronto who made money by selling worthless European currency for piddling amounts of Canadian cash.

"Only a quarter, gentlemen. Just one Canadian quarter buys this Soviet 250,000 ruble note".

Passersby were also offered Austrian 10,000 kronen notes, German 10,000 mark notes — each for less than the cost of a decent Toronto breakfast.

And, as Hemingway noted laconically "worth 15 cents a trillion before the New York banks refused to quote them any more".

But even that pales beside the worst case of monetary inflation the world has ever known. That occurred in Hungary at the end of the Second World War. The basic unit of Hungarian currency was the pengo, as it had been since 1931, when Hungary went off the gold standard and started printing paper pengos.

By 1946 one 1931 gold pengos was worth — are you ready? — 130,000,000,000,000,000 paper pengos.

The Hungarian economy was in free fall. Prices in Budapest were being hiked as often as ten times each day. When Hungarians woke up, the pengo had been abolished, their government had collapsed and their country had become part of the back yard of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Here in Canada? Well, our dollar's pretty flimsy, but at least we haven't set any inflation records. Not yet anyway.

Well, perhaps that's not quite true. Canada is probably responsible for the most inflated expense account ever submitted.

Back in 1921, while Hemingway was scribbling for the Star in Toronto, a rather more famous journalist by the name of Gene Fowler was submitting his expense account for a newspaper assignment that had taken him through much of Canada. Fowler was a feature writer for the New York American and he liked to live high on the hog. While in Canada, he had stayed at five star hotels, eaten at the best restaurants and travelled by private coach on the CNR.

He couldn't tell his editor that, of course. So Fowler turned on the creative juices. He submitted expenses for polar bear parkas, snowshoes, rifles and Eskimo guides. He even claimed that he's had to buy a second-hand dogsled, plus a team of experienced huskies to haul it.

The newspaper auditor returned the expense account because it failed to balance.

Fowler went to work inventing more expenses. He claimed that his lead dog had died and he'd had to pay out $100 for a tombstone.

Closer, but the auditor said the books still didn't quite balance. Exasperated, Fowler submitted his final expense: "flowers for the bereft bitch: $1.50."

Merchants take to the ice

-submitted-

Whoever said you couldn't have fun at curling, obviously wasn't on hand January 14 at the Minden rink. The morning started with coffee flavoured with Jamaican sugar and brown cow courtesy of Prentice Berry Ltd. Donuts were provided by the Breadboard and Sweets Bakery.

Teams took to the ice in three shifts, playing six end games. Each team had two games. During the breaks, Cub Coneybeare rolled out his famous green carpet and with the help of his assistants Bill Harrison, Tom Fisher and Neil Burk, provided some entertainment as the curlers rolled for steaks donated by Coneybeare's Butcher shop.

During the day raffle tickets on a water colour painting created and donated by Marion Hill were offered. The draw for the local scene was held after the dinner and was won by Peter Alexander.

After the last rock had come to rest, the curlers retired to the lounge for a delicious pot-luck supper, courtesy of all the teams and some help from the Curling Club.

After careful computation of the days proceeding by score-master Bill Bonner, it was announced that the John Francis Fuels foursome had won the day. The team, which included Don Blakey, Mary Jane Irwin, Ron Chillman and Darnell Francis, was presented with The Times trophy and had first pick at the prize table.

The bonspiel; was arranged so that each player would take home a prize. After the champions received their prizes, each of the teams was called forward and selected a prize by lot. Prizes were provided by the following team sponsors and individuals: Maggie and Bill Harrison; Kernohan Septic Service; CIBC; Keaney Chrysler; Austin Real Estate Ltd; Al Mayo; Minden Curling Club; The Times; John Francis Fuels; Easton's Valu-Mart; John and Marie Lennard; Carnarvon Garden Centre; Don Finn; David Shapiera; MNR staff; Roodenberg Real estate; Sid Stamp Fuels; Ontario Hydro staff; Kawartha Dairy; Highlands Plumbing; J.C. OMHA Tier II playoffs

Legion bantams hold edge on Cannington

by Jerry Grozelle

Minden's Legion bantam B Monarchs held the upper hand after the first two games of Tier II OMHA playoffs against Cannington. The Monarchs came out a little flat-footed against Cannington in the first game. Having had good success against this team all season, the Monarchs expected the same when the Cannington squad came to Minden for the series opener on January 21.

The visitors were more determined than the Monarchs were accustomed to and they allowed Cannington to escape with a 1-1 tie.

The scoreboard remained blank after the first period and it was almost four minutes into the second before Matt Cheeseman broke the scoreless tie. Gavin Gartshore assisted.

Cannington replied with 4:16 left in the middle frame, to knot the score at 1-1.

Neither team was able to get one past the opposing goaltender for the rest of the game and it ended in a draw. No overtime was played. Instead, league rules state that if a series is tied after three games (it is a best of three series) a fourth game will be played and the outcome will be decided on a points basis.

Monarchs coach Scott Gartshore says his team may have taken Cannington a little too lightly.

"We had beaten them decisively all season," he said. "They (Cannington) were up for the game."

The Minden squad was missing a few players for the series opener because of illness and suspensions, which Gartshore admits didn't help the Monarchs' cause.

They were in better shape in terms of manpower for the second game, with only a couple of the regulars out of the lineup. Still, Cannington held the upper hand after the first two periods. At the end of two frames, the host Cannington squad held a 4-3 advantage.

Coach Gartshore said a pep talk between the second and third periods had the desired effect. The Monarchs came out with a winning attitude for the final 15 minutes, scoring five goals and holding the opposition off the scoreboard for an 8-4 win.

Cannington got on the board first, with six minutes left in the first period. Just 44 seconds remained in the frame when Kirk Smith tied it up on a setup from Jason Horsley and Jason Kasepchuk.

Minden jumped in front 29 seconds into the second period with a goal by Cheeseman. Smith and Philip Daniels assisted.

Cannington scored two in a row to recover the lead, but Curtis Barry tied the game again with 3:21 left in the period. Kasepchuk assisted.

It took Cannington just 14 seconds to break the tie and the home side was in front 4-3 when the buzzer sounded to end the second period.

The third frame was only 47 seconds old when Barry notched his second goal in a row for the Monarchs, an unassisted effort.

That goal was the beginning of the end for the Cannington team. Minden pumped in four more unanswered goals for a convincing win. Horsley scored two of the last four goals, including the game winner, and assisted on one more. Kasepchuk scored one and helped set up two more and Cheeseman notched his second of the game. Barry picked up two assists and Cory Bull had one helper.

Cannington needed a win on Saturday afternoon to keep the series alive.

Coach Gartshore said he expected his team to be back to full strength for Saturday's game.

Details of that game won't be available until next week.

The Legion team finished in second place in the standings behind Sunderland.

If the Monarchs get past Cannington, Gartshore expects to meet the winner of the Ops-Manvers series in the semifinal round.

Minden Men's Hockey Association

Action heats up as playoffs approach

by Jerry Grozelle

Action is heating up in the Minden Men's Hockey Association. With one night of regular season play left, the six teams are starting to prepare their playoff strategies.

KDD 4, Times 3

The first of three Minden Men's Hockey association games last week saw Kountry Double D earn its second win of the season, at the expense of The Times.

KDD built up a 3-0 lead, only to see The Times rebound to tie the game. KDD's Charlie Teljeur was the hero of the game for his team, scoring the game winner, unassisted.

The trio of Steve Stewart, John Teljeur and Gary Nelson combined to score the first two KDD markers. Stewart was the marksman on both goals, with the other two setting him up. Greg Alexander scored the third KDD goal, unassisted.

Paul Mayo scored two of the Times replies, with Ron May and Jeff Howe assisting both. Howe scored the single, from Dwayne Warburton and May.

Stamp 5, Hartwick 4

Game two of the night was another close one, with Sid Stamp Fuels edging Hartwick Construction 5-4.

The Stamp crew scored the first two goals, forcing Hartwick to play catch-up hockey for the rest of the game. Hartwick got one back, but Stamp notched two more before the end of the first half.

Hartwick narrowed the gap to one goal again in the second half, only to fall short by a goal at the final buzzer.

Scott Nesbitt netted a hat trick for the winners, with Boomer Stamp and Trini Elias adding one each. Elias had a pair of assists to go with his goal. Jarrett Campbell contributed three assists to the Stamp win. Tom Haley had two helpers and single assists went to Tom Miscio, Eldon Bull and Gary Harrison.

Ritchie Mills notched two of the Hartwick goals, with singles going to Andrew Burke and Ivan Ingram. Gord Wood and Jason Stamp picked up two assists each, with single helpers going to Burke, Dean Sisson and Ingram.

Home 10, Westside 6

A four-goal spurt near the end of the first period proved to be the difference when Home Hardware tangled with Westside Jug City in the evening's late game. Home came out on top by a 10-6 count.

Home opened the scoring, but Westside replied with three in a row for a temporary 3-1 lead. Home pumped in four in a row to end the first period with a 5-3 advantage.

Westside closed the gap to 5-4 early in the second half, but Home responded with three more. The two teams alternated scoring for the last four goals.

Dave Hartwick paced the Home Hardware attack with four goals. Kent Taylor added a hat trick. Lawrence Loughheed notched a pair and four assists and Jim Crawford scored one and helped set up one more. Wyatt Nesbitt and Barry Shaw helped the Home cause with four assists each. Andy Schollig, Fraser Rogers and John Ballantyne had one assist each.

Scott Danilko scored twice for Westside, with Scott Hamilton, David Rogers, Monty Miscio and Craig Crowe netting singles.

Massive gun-owners' rally planned

A massive gun-owners' rally has been planned to protest some of the gun control measures recently proposed by federal Justice Minister Allan Rock. The rally, which is sponsored by the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association, will be held at the gymnasium of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School on Sunday, February 5 at 1 p.m.

According to The Government's Action Plan on Firearms Control, all owners of rifles and shotguns will be required to register both themselves and their guns or face a $2,000 fine and six months in jail. The gun owners would pay for registration on a cost-recovery basis, and be required to renew their registration every five years. Canadian law has required the registration of all handguns since 1934, but under the new proposals, the legally registered owners of 553,000 handguns will have their guns become prohibited weapons, without compensation. The Haliburton County Marksmen Club, which has a government-approved range near Kinmount, will also come under new regulations.

Rally organizer Peter Hynard said that the government's proposals penalize legitimate and law-abiding gun owners and will do nothing to reduce the incidence of violent crime in Canadian cities. He predicted that at least 500 Haliburton County hunters, trappers and competition target shooters will show up to sign the petitions which will be sent to Ottawa. Hynard said that the purpose of the rally is to gather support for Victoria-Haliburton MP John O'Reilly, who has stated his intention to vote against his own government's Bill. We need crime control, not more gun control, Hynard said.

John O'Reilly and Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson, who also opposes the federal government plan, will be two of the speakers at the rally. Other speakers include Terry Smeltzer, president of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, retired conservation officer Aubrey Gostlin, Hunter Safety Course examiner Mike Buss and Marksmen Club member Chris Bullerdick.

Similar gun-owners' rallies have sprung up in protest across the country, including Lindsay and Huntsville. The proposed legislation is scheduled to be introduced in the House of Commons in February. The Reform Party opposes the legislation, while the Bloc Quebecois is in favour. Other Liberal MPs besides O'Reilly are expected to vote "no" to the proposed Bill.

Firearms legislation: Here is what the new law proposes

A rally this Sunday afternoon at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School is expected to draw hundreds of gun owners who are not pleased with proposed changes to federal regulations regarding firearms. Many individuals in the Highlands, including MP John O'Reilly and MPP Chris Hodgson have spoken out against the new laws and will be on hand Sunday to continue their protest. They, along with a number of other individuals representing a variety of sporting groups, will be on hand to address the group. The following summary of the federal government's new law was prepared in advance of the rally and outlines the impact the new rules will have, particularly on legitimate gun owners.

A more detailed summary of the proposed legislation is available by contacting your MP and requesting a copy of The Government's Action Plan on Firearms Control, and related material.

The proposed changes and amendments to firearms legislation as proposed by federal Justice Minister Allan Rock can be separated into two categories. One category deals with penalties meted out to those who use guns during the commission of a crime -- criminal control. The other is a list of penalties that will be imposed upon innocent gun owners -- gun control.

The latter have been labelled "innocent" for this purpose simply because, in Canada, one is supposed to be presumed innocent until proven otherwise.

Under the crime control section, some of the highlights of the legislation are as follows:

- * Additional mandatory minimum sentences of four years in prison and a lifetime prohibition against possession of a restricted weapon when committing any of 10 specific violent offenses with a firearm. Those offenses include attempted murder, manslaughter, criminal negligence causing death, robbery, kidnapping, hostage-taking, sexual assault with a weapon, aggravated assault, extortion and discharging a firearm with intent to cause harm.

- * New minimum jail sentences for possession of a stolen firearm and possession of a loaded restricted weapon without a permit.

- * The use of imitation or replica firearms in the commission of an offence will add an additional minimum of one year in jail to the sentence.

Stiffer penalties will be created for illegally importing and trafficking in firearms.

- * Possession of smuggled firearms will be punishable by a sentence of up to 10 years in prison.

following:

- * Handguns with no legitimate purpose will be banned. The future sale of a wide variety of makes and models of handguns now on the market in Canada will be prohibited (approximately 58 per cent). Current owners of these banned firearms may be allowed to keep them but they may not be transferred and must be turned over to police upon the death of the registered owner.

- * The future importation and sale of .25 and .32 calibre handguns will be banned. The same will apply to all handguns with a barrel length of 4.14 inches (105 millimetres) or less.

The implications of the above restrictions are that the number and types of handguns available for sale in Canada will be severely curtailed. Vastly fewer handguns will be in private hands. More than half of all the (currently legal) handguns in private hands will not be permitted to be sold once the legislation takes effect.

To keep or to acquire handguns, owners will have to satisfy authorities that they are legitimate collectors or target shooters. Anyone unable or unwilling to meet these exacting new requirements would have to forfeit their handguns. (There is no mention of compensation for forfeited property.)

On January 1, 1995, more than 200 individual models of military and paramilitary rifles were banned. That represents almost 19,000 such rifles that were legally registered as restricted weapons, were banned. Owners of these rifles may keep them (as long as they can justify ownership) for life, but they can't be transferred or sold to anyone else.

A number of recent model assault pistols, combat shotguns and assault rifles and carbines were banned outright. They were required to have been turned in to police by January 1, 1995.

When (if) enabling legislation is passed, there will be a ban on the sale and import of a number of other firearms, two of which are the Ruger Mini-14 and the AR-15 and variants.

Crossbows will be defined as firearms and will be subject to storage, transportation and other restrictions, the same as rifles or shotguns. Small crossbows that could be used one-handed were banned outright.

The sale, import and manufacture of replica firearms will be banned.

Registration

Under proposed legislation, a computerized registry of all firearms and firearms owners would be created. The system would be administered by the RCMP. The goal is to ensure rigorous controls over all imports and exports of firearms and ammunition. It is also intended as a tool to help trace the origins and ownership of firearms seized by police.

Registration of all firearms owners would start January 1, 1996.

The registration system would also be used to control access to ammunition. The legal age to purchase of ammunition would be raised from 16 to 18 years of age. Offenses will be introduced to ensure compliance with these new measures.

The Bill dealing with this proposed legislation will be tabled upon resumption of Parliament in February.

The preceding is a brief synopsis of the proposals that Justice Minister Rock wants to push through Parliament. For more detailed documentation, contact the Communications and Consultation Branch of the Department of Justice and request the fact sheets that are available. The telephone number is 613-957-4207.

Data for this article was gathered from a news release from the Department of Justice, dated November 30, 1994.

Northern Community Network sets new term priorities

-submitted-

The first meeting of the association known as the Northern Community Network took place January 19 at the Somerville municipal offices in Kinmount. The Northern Network brings together elected officials from municipalities in northern Victoria and Peterborough Counties and southern Haliburton County to discuss issues of common interest. The meeting was the first since the councillors took office following the municipal elections last November. It provided an opportunity for the representatives to meet each other and discuss a number of issues. Action plans were initiated in the following areas:

Emergency services: It was agreed that a full study of the emergency services was needed. A group was formed to examine this subject with the intention of reporting in the fall.

Health care services: a consensus was reached to support the initiatives of municipalities in obtaining necessary health care in communities where doctors services, equipment and support services are lacking or under-supplied.

Purchases of supplies and material and the sharing of equipment: Considering the present economic climate, there was an acceptance of the need to do more with less. A group will be formed to investigate ways of reducing costs through collective purchasing of goods and services, privatizing services, partnerships, and sharing of equipment where possible. There was agreement that the traditional way of "doing business" regarding political and geographic boundaries must change if efficiencies are to be realized.

Business and commerce initiatives: Throughout the discussions there was an understanding of the opportunity which exists to work together for a better quality of life for all residents. The group agreed that this could be accomplished through initiatives aimed at increasing tourism, economic development and the promotion of the natural environment.

The next meeting of the Northern Community Network will be hosted by the municipality of Laxton, Digby and Longford in Norland on April 20.

HCSA update

by Brian Watts,
President, Haliburton County
Snowmobile Association

Well, it's been here, it's gone and hopefully it's returning.

Snow and cold that is.

After the worst December and January for snowmobiling that I can remember, finally the cold returned on Thursday (January 26) and I can only hope the snow is not far behind so we can get things happening again.

Thanks to all our faithful HCSA members our numbers now stand at approximately 2500, just slightly below our membership from last season, but hey, if the snow comes and we are still doing our favourite thing in late March, we may reach our goal of 3000.

Please note that our consumer's choice draw tickets are now available, so be sure to purchase one so you have a chance to win a 1996 sled, and by doing so support the HCSA.

Well, Winterfest is fast approaching. It starts Friday, February 10 and concludes February 12. This is rapidly becoming the biggest snowmobile and family event of its kind anywhere in Ontario. There is the usual fine line-up of events including the Friday bonfire, cook-outs, two different breakfasts and dances from which to choose, all day radar runs on Head Lake, and of course, the $1000.00 first prize poker run. The Kitty Cat course will be ready for our future snowmobilers, vintage sleds will be on display and much more. While you are enjoying some hot goodies from the Rotary Club booth, check out some of the other displays, like the Winterfest booth and the HCSA booth--both have some great stuff from which to choose.

Remember the weekend after Winterfest is the exclusive Women on Snow event which will attract some 200 ladies from all over North America for a fun-filled weekend of riding our trail system and supporting our community. So, if you see them on the trail or in your place of business, be sure to make them welcome.

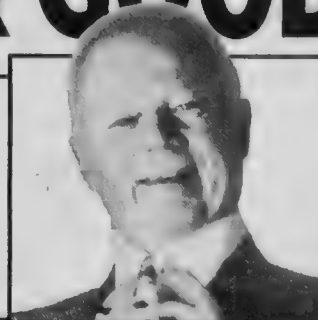

As I conclude this update, let me remind everyone that the lakes and ponds are not safe for travel. Unless they have been marked by the HCSA, do not attempt to use the lakes. Contact us for further information.

If the snow graces our area, I will see you on the trails...so until then, Ride Safe--Ride Sober.

The community living association's ski challenge fundraiser held January 14 raised around $2,600 for the organization.

"Anything helps, but that will really help a lot," said Cheryl Curry, executive director for the Haliburton Association for Community Living.

Around 60 skiers participated in the event, held at Sir Sam's.

The association serves around 20 clients in various capacities around the county. This is the first time it has held such an event.

Chelsea Heins, was one of the many skiers who participated in the slalom race.

Happy
New Year to everyone!

On behalf of your

Royal Canadian Legion, I would like to report we had a successful year in 1994 and look forward with anticipation of an even better 1995.

I'll repeat a few facts that you should know about our legion.

Firstly, we have a membership of almost 500 with a Ladies Auxiliary of 68.

There are a lot of groups we support financially that some people don't realize including the hospital, churches, various youth organizations and many more worthwhile community causes.

Our L.A. serves a delicious luncheon each day from 12 noon to 2 p.m. with a "special" and a menu from which to select. They also have special dinners throughout the year.

A reminder from the membership chairman - a member in arrears as of January 31 is not in good standing for any purpose. This includes suspension of the legion magazine and participation in sporting activities. Please act accordingly.

Friday night darts - please sign up for darts competition and fun, on the poster provided in the branch. Friday night

Peer advocates help grade nine students through first year

by Misty Bennett,
HHSS student reporter

Peer advocating, a sister project of the peer tutoring program, was introduced to the students at HHSS last fall. The program places OAC students with a group of Grade 9 students, usually 14-16 per group. Unlike the peer tutoring program, this program is not offered as a school course, nor is any academic credit available to participants. However, involvement in a peer advocating program sure looks good on a resumé.

The peer advocates' first task was to meet with their assigned grade nine students to discuss plans for their careers. Appointments were booked with peer advocates through the guidance office. The grade nine students were then given a tour of the resources available at the Guidance office, including material on universities and colleges and information on specific careers.

Peer counsellors also provide personal counselling for the first-year students. Situations often arise in a student's life which can be quite harrowing. Through the peer advocating program, the younger students can benefit from the experience of the OAC students.

Most of this year's peer advocates served as peer tutors last year. This experience stands them in good stead in dealing with grade nine students. Sarah Cowling, a peer advocate this year, says she got involved, "...because I want to be a social worker, and I wanted to gain practical experience in a formal setting." Cowling was a peer tutor last year and is currently working with a grade nine gym class.

Peer advocate Laura Lancia suggested that the most positive aspect of the program was the interaction between grade nine students and those in their OAC year.

Julie-Anne Adam adds, "Getting information about career and education options early helps to avoid stress in grade 12 and OAC year. That sort of support was not available to us."

Peer advocating is a program that will, hopefully, continue for many years at the high school. The benefits for the grade nine students as well as the advocates, appear to be great.

PEER ADVOCATES: Staff advisor Mrs. Laura Willis, Julie-Anne Adam, Misty Bennett, Melissa Grozelle, Sarah Cowling, Jim Dewey and Laura Lancia. Absent: Melissa Forgrave, Jocelyn MacKenzie, Laura Hopkins and Sheena Horning.

Austin elected to reform group

Dianne Austin, a trustee on the Victoria County Board of education from Norland, has been elected to the position of vice-chair of the Ontario School Board Reform Network (OSBRN) according to a press release issued last week.

OSBRN is a coalition of individual, reform-minded trustees and concerned taxpayers committed to strengthening the role of publicly elected school trustees and to ensuring public accountability for board financial and program decisions.

"We want the role, rights and responsibilities of a trustee to be written in law within the Education Act. Trustees must be guaranteed free and open access to information in relation to all board business and operations, particularly with respect to major spending decisions," Austin said. As an example, she cited a case which occurred recently in Windsor. "The trustees in that community requested the Canadian Achievement Test results of their students. The request was denied by the administration. The trustees then accessed the information through the Freedom of Information Act, at a cost to them of $1000. Such events should never have happened," said Austin. "How can we serve our constituents if we are denied information?"

As part of her duties with OSBRN, Mrs. Austin also holds a position on the board of directors of the Coalition for Education Reform. It is this group which is responsible for publishing a "Report Card" on the public education system in the province, giving it a D-

Back from a year down-under, Simon Reid says everything you've heard about Australia is true

by Andrew Milne

"Have a year away. It's life-changing." That's Simon Reid, speaking to anyone who gets a chance to get outside this country for a decent interval.

Reid spent a year in Australia, from January 1994 to January 1995. Eighteen years of age, he had lived in the Carnarvon area for all of his life prior to trying life on the other side of the globe. He says he recommends travel to anyone who gets a chance to do it.

Simon attended the equivalent of grade twelve in the Australian school system while he was there, under a program called the Family Relations Single Young Persons Program. He has family in Australia, an aunt and uncle, which allowed him to participate in the program.

Simon explained, "If you are under 18 and single, and you have family relations over there, you can live with them for a year and go to school tuition-free as a 'cultural experience'."

"So I jumped at that."

Australia was a revelation for a lot of reasons, says Simon. First of all, there was the school system.

"It's much more difficult over there. We worked it out, and it's a lot like the British system — a 60 there is like a 95 here. You just have to work so hard. To get into many of the universities over there, the average entrance mark is 75, 78 because it's so much harder, and everyone knows that. To get into medical school it's still 99.5 or whatever."

The semester system is different too. There are three terms, with two week breaks in between and a much shorter summer holiday to make up the time.

Simon Reid spent the past year in Australia, discovering a land a world away and expanding his cultural horizons

G'day mate

We've all seen the film Crocodile Dundee and know the stereotypes. Australians are friendly, garrulous, easy-going. Is it true?

Simon says, on average, and though there are always exceptions, yes it is.

"I've never had to fit into another school," he says, "and haven't moved around at all. I don't have a lot of experience... But I met thirty or more people the first day, just because I was Canadian. They'd say, 'oh, you're Canadian? There's another Canadian in the school' — and so by lunch hour I'm sitting around talking with these people and laughing. I found it really easy to fit in."

And add fun-loving to that list of adjectives, if it wasn't there already.

"I found that they're a lot more liberal," says Simon. "We're so conservative over here. Everyone is worried about who they party with. Over there they don't worry who you party with as long as you have a party. They're very down to earth, happy people."

Simon stayed in Sydney, the largest urban area in Australia, for most of his stay. He says Sydney has a number of quirks that distinguish it quite readily from other cities he has seen.

In particular, says Simon, the access trails used to get fire equipment out to fight bush fires before they can get to the city periphery are excellent for mountain biking.

"And at the end, I experienced a couple of bush fires right near our house," he recalls.

So, overall, did he have fun?

"Yeah," he says. "Lots."

He laughs.

"It was a very educational experience."

The louse hunt: an annual adventure

by Marjaana Young

"What's eating you?" my friend asked the other day. "Apparently it could be anything..." I grumbled. "Huh?"

I showed her a letter sent home from the school: "...we have discovered lice in the classroom of your son/daughter...."

This year hasn't been bad, so far. Last year was murder.

Years ago, 'down south' my middle child started scratching her head.

A lot.

I changed the soap powder, shampoo, soap, gave her anti-histamines, bought lotions, gave away her wool sweater.

Nada...nothing.

I took her to the doctor and was told she had an allergy and waddled off with a prescription still for more lotion and more anti-histamines.

Still nada.

Gallons of lotion later, things just got worse, she now sported a red rash down her neck. I dragged her in for a second opinion. "Oh gee, its just lice!" the handsome young doctor pronounced with mirth, then looked at my horrified expression. "I take it you're not familiar with this? Well here's what you do...."

Just lice! I flipped. My skin crawled and I developed a sudden over-all itch. I felt so ashamed, thinking this calamity was due to some obvious failings as a housekeeper and a mother. My first impulse was to quit my job, change my name and leave town before my in-laws heard about this.

The infestation was pretty comprehensive. As I gingerly pulled back my daughter's bed-covers, I could actually see the wee vermin scurrying about. They looked lively enough, like they were organizing into a union. I screamed the house down.

I scrubbed, vacuumed, laundered, bleached, boiled, dry-cleaned. I deloused the whole family and even sprayed the pets. (Futile, only people get loused up.) A week later I went through the whole routine over again, just to make sure there was absolutely nothing left alive in that house that didn't share our last name.

The rash went away.

I calmed down.

A month later, Middle Daughter is busily scratching her head...

Always the same socially over-developed child! ("Sure you borrow my brush!...and this hair band would look great on you.") Decapitation not being an option, I eventually accepted delousing as part of routine house-keeping.

So what be my point? Well, until that first hair-raising episode with these blood-sucking parasites (the lice: the kids haven't turned into teenagers yet), I didn't even know that lice existed. I thought we were done with lice, bed-bugs and bubonic plague. After all, we are, ahem, civilized; we don't sleep on dirt floors with the goats; and most of us do bathe and change clothing before it falls off of its own accord.

Still, those letters from the school keep on coming. Why?

There are numerous reasons, some of which I would like to address.

Many complain the delousing stuff is too expensive. Expensive yes, especially if there are a lot of heads with a lot of hair to treat, but most drug plans (social and otherwise) cover the cost. One can be scratch-free for free...so don't skimp on it, please. Properly used, certain products will keep rug rats from being infected for about two weeks.

'Dirty hair promotes lice so I'm not telling anyone, they'll think I'm a slob...' Contrary-wise, nits tends to slip off oily tresses, but adhere well to those squeaky clean ones. Not fair, but there you have it. And pass the word—except to that youngest offspring who still regards shampoo and soap akin to poison — and may, purposely, misunderstand the message.

How many people mutter, "Oh my, Junior's got it again." and head first to the tub with junior? The rest of the family 'doesn't have any.' Next week Sis is discovered to harbour lice and gets treated. And three weeks later Junior 'has it' again. Gee, how'd that happen? Well, Sis probably housed a few tenants in her scraf, which then moved up to the penthouse...better to do the whole crew and be done with it.

Dads tend to be the biggest offenders. "I don't have lice and never had any! You are not coming near me with that stinking gunk!"

"Real men" don't feel tiny nibbles, you know. Of course, nature will solve this problem anyway, by eventually relieving a lot of Real Men of their real hair. (Or does it just get chewed off?) However, until they need only to polish their domes, real or unreal men get lice just the same. So, like get with the program, pop.

Yes the treatment does have a bit of an aroma about it. OK, so it reeks. Yet it's nothing compared to perms or hair dyes. What? real men don't do dyes, etc.? Right. Or is it just that they don't chat shades of auburn over beer at half-time?

One of the most annoying causes of these letters from the school was pointed out by my doctor. He said frequent itchiness is not lice at all, but a result of a lack of humidity in our homes, which in the winter often drops lower than that found in the Sahara Desert (fact). The skin dries out to a crisp and the alleged bite on the little princess's head may be nothing more than a tiny spot of blood where the kid tore a hair out by the roots, while busily removing itchy flakes of dead skin.

Now, don't you feel better knowing you are not the only one with a lousy life? Ah, didn't think so, and that perhaps is the biggest obstacle to permanently getting rid of same. Maybe we should organize a national shampoo-in?

And how about this: I was handed this 'official' kiddie manual at the hospital to go along with my freshly hatched child. It wasn't a very memorable piece of literature and the only thing I still remember from it was this: as late as 1969, it was in fact recommended that lice be treated by powdering baby's head with DDT.

We all know what DDT does to birds eggs...

FIRST PUBLIC NOTICE

The Ministry Of Natural Resources is proposing to stock F1 Splake in Otterhead Lake in Hindon Township. The project will enhance coldwater fishing opportunities in the Haliburton Highlands Area. This lake was managed through stocking of brook trout up until 1986. A survey at this time revealed poor to nil survival of brook trout which was attributed to the presence of an abundance of yellow perch in the lake,

This proposed project will involve planting hatchery-reared F1 splake, a hybrid of lake trout and brook trout, and is being planned in accordance with the approved MNR Class Environmental Assessment for Fish Stocking in New Waters. Such assessments are intended to give interested and affected parties the opportunity to provide input into the planning of such projects and to request if necessary, individual treatment under the Environmental Assessment Act.

You are invited to direct any inquiries, comments or concerns regarding this proposal to the Area Supervisor, Minden Area Office by February 28, 1995.

Final notice of this project will be issued to those who reply to this notice or to those who are directly affected.

Can People Be Vegetables?

The old saying, "you are what you eat," is true. Of course, you won't turn into a bunch of broccoli if you eat one, but it will provide a good source of Vitamin A, making you stronger and less susceptible to infections. The same goes for sweets. There's nothing wrong with a piece of chocolate now and then. But since it's high in fat, if you eat too much, you might just get fat, too.

Below are some nutrition questions. See if you're a food aficionado by circling the correct answer.

- Which has more fat per serving?
 - Macadamia nuts
 - Whole milk
 - Baked potatoes
 - Vanilla ice cream
- Where does lard come from?
 - Pigs' feet
 - Chickens' heads
 - Pigs' abdomens
 - Cows' heads
- Which is highest in Vitamin A?
 - Radishes
 - Chocolate
 - Spinach
 - Cola
- What percentage of water does one average-sized carrot contain?
 - 20 percent
 - 40 percent
 - 75 percent
 - 90 percent
- Which has the most protein per serving?
 - Liver
 - Carrots
 - Eggs
 - Olives
- The most popular but least nutritious lettuce is:
 - Red-leaf.
 - Iceberg.
 - Romaine.
 - Bibb.
- Vitamin C loss is caused by:
 - Stress.
 - Smoking.
 - High fat intake.
 - All of the above.
- Which should never be eaten raw?
 - Carrots
 - Fish
 - Chicken
 - Peanuts
- Which has the highest nutritional value?
 - Creamed vegetables
 - Raw vegetables
 - Canned vegetables
 - Fried vegetables
- The best diet is one that contains:
 - only vegetables and some fruit.
 - mostly meat, especially hot dogs and burgers.
 - a sensible balance of all nutrients.
 - all candy, mostly chocolate and ice cream.
- Tomatoes are:
 - vegetables.
 - fruit.
 - dairy.
 - candy.

Service held in memory of Gertrude McKay

As I sit writing this column the snow is falling once again. It is just a fairyland out there right now. We need the snow for the Dog Sled races which had to be postponed due to the lack of snow.

Monday was fitness with Doris. In the afternoon the residents held Poets' Corner. They wrote a poem about Valentine's Day. In the evening, the Salvation Army entertained with music and song. They delivered a message as well. We thank them.

Tuesday morning chapel service was conducted by Rev. Peter Walford-Davis. It was a communion service. A memorial service was held in memory of Gertrude McKay who passed away January 9. After chapel the pastoral committee and formed a sub-committee to make policies regarding pastoral care. They discussed name tags to identify the pastors.

In the afternoon, Dottie, Phyllis and I held crafts. The Valentine decorations are almost completed. Now it is time to start on Easter decorations. In the evening Pearl Cowen assisted the residents with some euchre. Thanks Pearl.

Wednesday and Thursday morning fitness was handled by Janice Rachar. It sure helps Doris to have Janice on board. In the afternoon Pearl called bingo. In the evening Everett Fairey entertained with music and songs. The residents enjoy his music so much.

Thursday tea party was hosted by Hyland Crest. They supplied the hors d'oeuvres. Delicious cookies were brought in by Ham Brown's daughter. They were thoroughly enjoyed.

Friday happy hour was filled with music and dance. Due to a medical problem the scheduled entertainment Ed and Billy Picard were unable to come. We all wish Billy the best and hope they will be able to return real soon. On short notice Norman Graham and Shirley and Murray Davis and Doris Robertson performed to the max. We were so glad the residents didn't have a big disappointment with no entertainment available. Volunteers for happy hour were Dottie Muirhead, Don and Ellen Holden and Pearl Cowen.

Linda Fry is back after about three weeks absence. She broke her ankle at the Home when she was playing Santa. She is trying to stay off her foot so she is sitting reading to the residents. The book is "Accident" by Danielle Steel. The folks are really enjoying it. Linda says they are sitting on the edge of their seats to hear what is next. Good to have you back Linda.

Saturday was a free day. There were no planned activities or guest entertainers.

Sunday afternoon Estella Burch did more reading from her book. Thanks Estella. In the evening chapel services were conducted by Rev. John Burgess. The residents appreciate his kindness so much.

There was one birthday this week. Congratulations go out to Norma Davies.

Keep well until next time.

Valentines Day of long ago

*When I was young and in my prime,
I always looked for a Valentine.
And when it came, I got so excited,
The flame in my heart had just been ignited.*

Some Valentines were funny and some were cute.

*Some I got didn't mean a hoot.
The ones you expected you never got,
The way some were worded meant a lot.*

The valentines were made from white art paper,

*In many ways, it was quite a caper.
As in the inside, words were especially written,
That made your heart purr like a kitten.*

*Sending a valentine was a lot of fun,
They usually amused most everyone.
But then there was always that special one,
When you had to guess who it was from.*

*Valentines Day will soon be here,
So send your Valentine to someone dear.
You'll want your sweetheart to hold you near,
And in your heart from year to year.*

Canada: a third world nation?

I've long argued that global economics underlies the current ecological destruction and must be altered if we are to have a sustainable future.

On January 12, in an editorial headlined "Bankrupt Canada?" the Wall Street Journal declared that Canada "has now become an honorary member of the Third World in the unmanageability of its debt problem."

It warned that without heroic measures, Canada might have to call in the International Monetary Fund to stabilize our falling currency.

Our resemblance to lesser developed countries extends beyond the deficit. We manufacture very little of the products used extensively in our homes, garages and workplaces. Most of our major industries are branch plants of transnationals with head offices elsewhere in the world. Nevertheless, we live like an advanced nation and finance the illusion with income generated by exporting raw materials.

The patronizing attitude toward Third World countries implicit in the Wall Street Journal's editorial reflects the belief in the superiority of the industrialized world and the global economy. Canada has already lost a triple-A credit rating and, warns the Wall Street Journal, the federal government should emulate the provincial premiers who cut rural hospitals, chop back school boards and slash welfare rolls.

Before our finance minister follows the prescription of the business community and the Wall Street Journal, let's try a suggestion once made to me by the eminent economist, Kenneth Boulding. I was telling him about the scary rhetoric being used to "persuade" Canadians to adopt the free-trade agreement with the US. With the FTA, we were told, Canada would be an "imminent economic basket case."

Boulding responded that to get an idea of how rich we really are, just imagine the consequences for Canada if all other countries vanished leaving only our country and two hundred miles of ocean. What would happen?

Canada is one of the two major grain exporters in the world so we would not lack for food. Our natural resources of land, water, timber and minerals, make us the envy of most people on the planet.

Furthermore, we have an educated, literate public capable of creating the most advanced technology desired. Boulding's thought exercise reveals that we are extremely well off.

If we apply the same exercise to Japan, currently one of the world's economic giants, and China, now roaring into economic prominence, the result is very different. Either country left alone would be in immediate difficulty. Japan has little energy and few natural resources beyond trees and its population is able to live high on the ecological food chain by exploiting waters and land far beyond its borders.

China, on the other hand, does have energy but major problems of pollution and limits on agricultural land and resources. Each country if alone, would be plunged into desperate straits.

There is something absolutely perverted in a system then, that renders Canada a poor country requiring external economic institutions to stabilize its economy while Japan and China are awesome colossi.

Global economics grossly undervalues air, water, soil and species diversity that keeps us alive while vastly overvaluing human intellect and activity. That's what creates the dichotomy in wealth between Canada, Japan and China. On the same day the Wall Street Journal was making its pronouncements, U.S. President Bill Clinton declared American confidence in the Mexican economy to help stabilize the calamitous plunge in the value of the peso.

For weeks, the Mexican government frantically tried to stabilize the peso. Pundits declared the Mexican economy had not inspired "investor confidence". Even if we overlook the glowing promise that seduced Canada and Mexico into NAFTA, what does the peso's plummet reveal? It informs us that the currency speculators are now more powerful than governments.

The Mexican government dipped deeply into its reserves to buy up pesos in a vain effort to halt its slide just as the French government and banks did two summers ago to halt the plunge of the franc. Few governments can stand up against the $600 billion in daily currency speculation on stock markets around the world!

It is an insane game when money can be bought and sold to make more money! Then money can be created faster than things in the real world and we need not worry about long-term sustainability.

Currency is a human invention and when it is no longer anchored to anything more tangible than "investor confidence" then we enter an Alice in Wonderland fantasy world. It is a realm that relegates Canada to Third Worldhood and has little value for the future of communities or ecosystems.

Acid rain report

The following report on acid precipitation was recorded at the Ministry of Environment and Energy site near Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period January 15 to 21:

Jan. 15: 12 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 4.5, traced from central Virginia and western Pennsylvania.

Jan. 16: 4 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 5.1, traced from eastern Ontario.

Jan. 20: 6 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 4.7, traced from western New York and Lake Ontario.

Jan. 21: 6 cm of snow with a pH of 4.7, traced from northern New England, southern Quebec and eastern Ontario.

Environmental damage to lakes and streams is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH readings of less than 4.7. pH readings less than 4.0 are considered serious.

MARTIN PET FOODS INC. presents THE MINDEN TECHNI-CAL[®] CHALLENGE ~ Free for Spectators ~ SLED DOG DERBY February 4 & 5 • Main St., Minden — IS IT ON OR NOT? —

At this point, (Sunday at noon), trail conditions are close to passable and since snow is expected, the race is still on for this coming weekend. The organizing committee, with the backing of the municipality, is adamant that the race will go ahead if at all possible. The community needs the "shot in the arm" the event will bring and the racing community is eager to participate. Barring a major deterioration in the weather, we are optimistic all systems will be go for this weekend....THINK SNOW!

We still need your help! If you would like to become involved in assisting with the Minden Sled Dog Derby, search out Crew Captains Saturday and Sunday and they will advise you how you can be of assistance. at Elaine Anderson's home on Saturday and who wears a size 9
loafer type shoe with little silver

IN MEMORIAM

MISCIO, Annie Ellen - In loving memory of Mom who passed away January 27, 1993.

There will always be a heartache

And often a silent tear,

But always precious memories

Of the days when you were here.

You never failed to do your best

Your heart was true and tender

You lived your life for those you loved

And those you loved, remember.

Dearly loved and sadly missed

by daughter Ruby.

MISCIO, Annie - In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away January 27, 1993.

Your end was very sudden,

No time to say goodbye,

You were gone before we realized it,

And only God knows why.

Our thoughts are always with you,

Your place no one can fill,

In life we loved you dearly,

In death, we love you still.

They say that time heals everything,

But we know it isn't so,

Because it hurts as much today,

As it did two years ago.

We hold you close within our hearts,

And there you will always remain,

To walk with us throughout our lives,

Until we meet again.

Sadly missed and lovingly remembered,

Gladys and Ron.

IN MEMORIAM

MISCIO, Annie - In loving memory of a dear Mother who passed away January 27, 1993. Though tears in our eyes do not glisten,

And our faces are not always sad,

There is never a night or morning

But we think of the Mother we had.

Not a day do we forget you,

In our hearts you are always here,

For we loved you and miss you

As it ends a second year.

Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Vera.

MISCIO, Annie - In loving memory of my dear Mother who left us suddenly January 27, 1993.

A year ago I had to part

With a mother I loved with all my heart,

What ever else I fail to do

I never fail to think of you.

A smile for all, a heart of gold

One of the best the world could hold,

Never selfish, always kind,

These are the memories you left behind.

Loving you and missing you -

until we meet again,

daughter Nell and family.

MISCIO, Annie - In loving memory of Mom who passed away January 27, 1993.

We miss you in so many ways,

We miss the things you used to say,

And when old times we do recall,

It's then we miss you most of all.

Sadly missed by son Carl and daughter Ruth.

FAIRHALL, Beatrice - In loving memory of a dear grandmother who passed away January 26, 1990.

Your memory is as strong today

As the day God took you home,

In His arms you're resting

And I know you're not alone.

This fills my heart with happiness

To know He's there with you

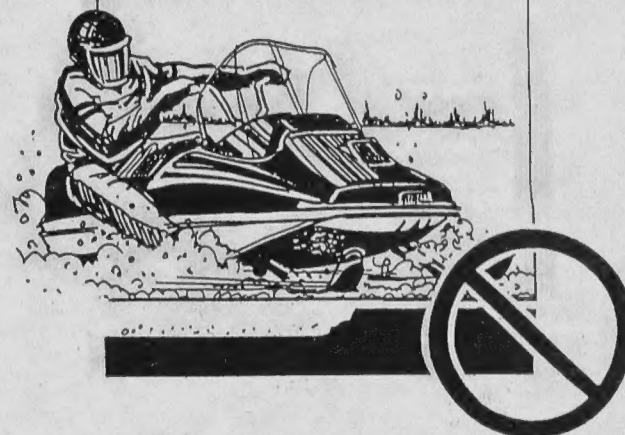

For I know He's watching over you

The way I used to do.

Sadly missed, always loved and remembered by Tanya, Cameron and Cassandra.
